The Challenge

Polytex invested in the Priority system to improve connectivity with their German subsidiary, streamline organizational processes, enhance inventory management and transparency, and address issues related to missed deadlines and high costs associated with their previous external accounting management system.

The Result

By leveraging Priority for improved inventory management, real-time data sharing, streamlined operations, and cost reduction, Polytex has gained greater control, transparency, increased efficiency, and savings across their organization.

About Polytex Technologies POLYTEX

Polytex Technologies is a leading provider of automated workwear management solutions. With over 20 years of industry experience, Polytex specializes in the development and manufacturing of advanced systems for folded garment management in various sectors such as hotels, healthcare institutions, fitness centers, and manufacturing sites. Their patented textile distribution method and advanced identification technology automate the lifecycle of textile items, ensuring efficient and controlled processes. With thousands of systems deployed worldwide and a strong presence across North and South America, Europe, and Asia, Polytex Technologies is trusted for its innovative solutions and commitment to customer satisfaction.

🏔️ The Challenge

The decision to invest in a new system stemmed from the need for connectivity and interface with the subsidiary company in Germany, as well as the need to streamline and unify organizational processes. In particular, Polytex required an advanced system for inventory management and organizational transparency vis-à-vis the subsidiary. Prior to implementing Priority, they relied on an external accounting management system, which often resulted in difficulties in meeting deadlines and incurred high costs.

💡 The Solution

Uzi Naim, CFO at Polytex, had previous experience with Priority and recognized it as the most suitable solution for the company. After being impressed by the system's performance and capabilities and engaging in discussions and recommendations with a German company already using Priority, Polytex established a German entity within the Priority system with full localization for Germany. This enabled the subsidiary to have full access to data and receive real-time information sharing.

📋 The Result

Since the implementation of Priority, everything is now consolidated into a single system. Inventory management and logistical processes have significantly improved, and budgetary control is now simple and easy.

Polytex now utilizes Priority to achieve better results, streamlining their operations, and reducing costs. With improved inventory management and real-time data sharing, they have gained greater control and transparency across their organization, leading to increased efficiency and savings.
